

THURBER HOUSE

Where laughter, learning and literature meet.

Hunting for something to do this summer?

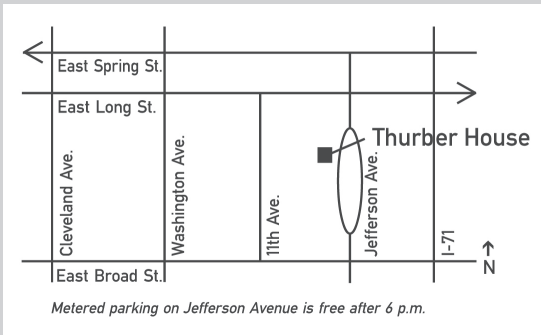

©R.T

Search no more! Join us at...

YOUNG WRITERS' STUDIO

Thurber House Young Writers' Studio is a supportive environment where writers in 9th through 12th grades come and workshop their writings. Past participants have showcased diverse styles of work including fantasy, social issues, screen writing, cartoons, film noir, poetry and more. The facilitator and instructor of the group is Columbus Dispatch freelance writer Kelli Trinoskey.

Metered parking on Jefferson Avenue is free after 6 p.m.

DATES: All classes are held on Wednesdays.

June 23

July 7

July 21

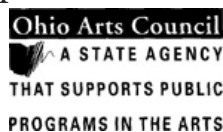

August 4

August 18

All sessions are from 6:30 – 8:30 p.m. at Thurber House, 77 Jefferson Avenue, the restored home of author, humorist, and New Yorker cartoonist James Thurber. No registration required, just drop in and pay $15 per session.

Questions? Call Thurber House at 614-464-1032 ext. 13 or visit www.thurberhouse.org.

Special thanks to:

Greater Columbus Arts Council
Supporting art. Advancing culture.

